Piero Fornasetti had boundless imagination when it came to the application of his graphic art, but mixing it up with fragrance was never on his agenda. Now Barnaba, his son and the head of Fornasetti, has teamed up with United Perfumes to produce an interior fragrance conceived as an extension to a Fornasetti object. The collection is a truly collaborative effort: French perfumer Olivier Polge created a scent with notes of thyme and wood; Parisian wax maker Cire Trudon worked on the candles; Japan's Nippon Kodo on the incense; and Italians Ceramiche Dal Prà on the containers, to which Barnaba applied Fornasetti designs. FOOD

FROZEN ASSETS

Last year, Brazilian brothers Thiago and Leandro Stoll decided to pack in their respective careers as a bar owner and a doctor in Curitiba to set up Stoll & Stoll, a boutique frozen food brand with a simple ethos: offering tasty meals to those too busy to cook. From Brazilian favourites such as feijoada and meatloaf to global staples such as lasagne, ten dishes are now on offer. All are made with fresh ingredients, some of which are grown in the factory's own garden. With desserts, soups and a children's line in the works, we've got our ovens at the ready. Stoll & Stoll frozen meals, from R$12 ($7), www.stollalimentos.com.br

HAPPY LANDING

The proposed regional airport in Rana, Norway, on the southern edge of the Arctic Circle

Its roof shape mirrors the nearby Træna mountains and the local vernacular architecture

The zig-zagged roof culminates in a tall peak that houses the airport control tower

ARCHITECTURE

NORTHERN FLIGHTS

Remote north Norway, home to majestic fjords and vast pine forests, is perhaps not the place you'd expect to find a new state-of-the-art airport. Yet that's exactly the location of the latest project by Oslo's Narud Stokke Wiig architects and London's eco-conscious practice Haptic. Drawing on their combined experience in airport design and large-scale commissions, the team's plans for the Rana airport feature huge glass façades to take in the dramatic landscape, a simple material palette and an expressive, folded metal roof that playfully mirrors the silhouette of the adjacent mountains. The intention was to respect the inspiring yet demanding site and work with the unforgiving local weather conditions. The project is being prepared for the local planning application process.
